Prior to joining Zweig-DiMenna, Brenda worked in institutional sales and research at Hambrecht & Quist and Prescott, Ball & Turben. She received a BA from Bucknell University, where she serves on both the Board of Trustees and the Investment Committee. Brenda received a Letter of Commendation from Bucknell University in 2004, a Certificate of Appreciation from the National Hemophilia Foundation for her work as a member of their Board of Directors. She also received the Industry Leadership Award from 100 Women In Hedge Funds late last year. Brenda was involved in the formation of the Manhattan Society for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.
