

100 women in hedge funds®

Charter Angel Bio

Patricia J. Young, Chief Investment Officer, NewMarket Capital Partners, LLC

Patricia J. Young, Chief Investment Officer, is a co-founder of NewMarket Capital Partners, LLC. Patricia is responsible for managing the investment process for alternative investments and plays an active role in the company's overall business strategy.

Prior to forming NewMarket Capital Partners, Patricia was a principal at CMS Companies, where she was the partner and the director of the Alternative Investment Division and the portfolio manager of the CMS Manager Select Funds.

Before joining CMS, Patricia was a senior vice president at Alliance Capital Management where she managed the mortgage and asset backed portfolio division. During her tenure the division grew by over $13 billion in assets, including $7 billion through the development of structured products that were specifically designed to meet the objectives of a range of institutional clients.

Patricia was also a managing director at Fischer Francis Trees & Watts and Hyperion Capital Management. At both investment firms, she was the lead portfolio manager for mortgage and asset backed investing. She was instrumental in bringing to market one of the first ARM funds designed for retail clients as well as an institutional short duration fund.

Patricia has an MBA from The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and a B.A. from Indiana University. She holds her Series 3, qualifying her as a Commodity Pool Operator. She is an active member of 100 Women in Hedge Funds.